Accidents kill one, injure four

Two accidents within a seven-hour period left one person dead and four people injured Tuesday.

John E. Ostenson, 32, the president of a Massachusetts snowmaking equipment company, was killed instantly at 12:45 a.m. Tuesday morning on the Sunday River Road in Bethel.

Ostenson, of Winchester, Mass., and a passenger, Peter Grosse, 43, also of Winchester, were traveling north on the Sunday River Road when their car went off the road and struck a utility pole, according to state trooper Richard McAllister.

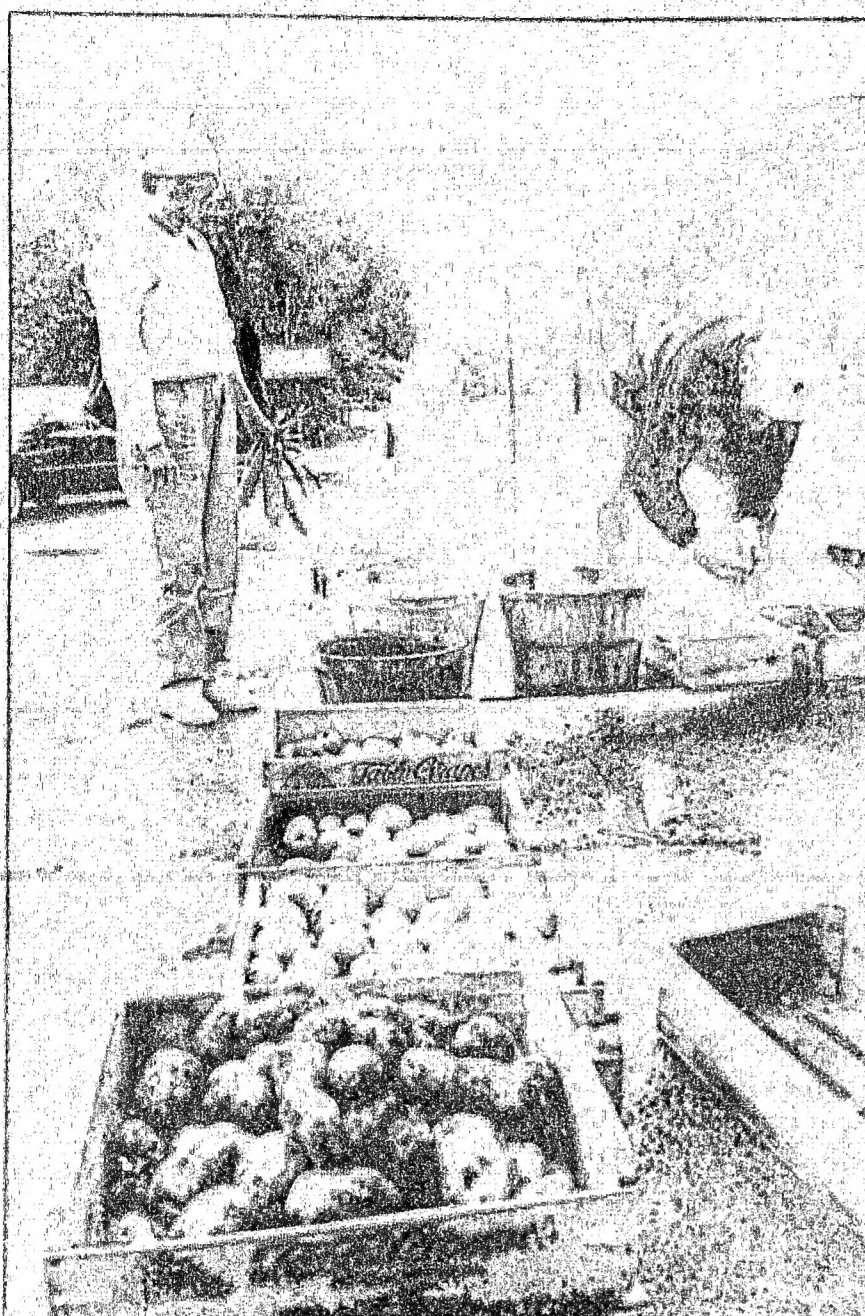

McAllister said the two men had just left the Sunday River Brewing Company. "He had accelerated as fast as he could. The accident happened about three tenths of a mile from the brewing company," McAllister said.

The Bethel Fire Department found the two men lying in the car. Grosse was taken to Central Maine Medical Center in Lewiston where he underwent surgery. A judge and spokesman said later Tuesday that he was in serious condition with chest injuries.

McAllister said Grosse was taken to the hospital but that he was still in critical condition. Another person who was injured was not named.

He said Grosse was a resident of South Bethel and was traveling on the Sunday River Road. The other person who was injured was not named.

SMALL RAIN, SMALL RELIEF—Rain Saturday put an appealing sheen on Keith Hodsdon's produce at the Bethel Farmers Market, but the intermittent showers did little else for local agriculture, which is suffering through the worst drought in decades. Despite the dry weather Sharon Merrill of Bethel and visitor Henry Malcolm still found plenty of fresh vegetables to choose from at Hodsdon's stand. (Photo by Melissa M. Davis)

How dry we are!

Crops shrivel, wells go dry, foliage browns out

By ALISON ALOISIO

Dry wells, small apples, stunted corn and foliage that is turning too soon — the Bethel area is bearing the fruit of a summer-long drought. The rain that fell Saturday did little to help the situation. Sunday's wind quickly dried the fields and woods. The only thing being dampened seems to be the region's autumn economy.

Early foliage

Some foliage, particularly that of birch trees, is changing two to three weeks early and then going quickly to brown. That's a concern to area businesses that rely on a good turnout of leaf peepers.

John Martin, manager of the Sudbury Inn, said people outside New England who have made reservations months in advance for late September and October may be in for a rude awakening.

"We haven't had any cancellations as far as Word hasn't gotten back to California. We're worried that people will land in Portland and say there's no foliage and want to cancel," Martin said. "We have a two-week cancellation policy. Do we say we're sorry, or write it off?"

99 percent of Ernie Neiberle's pumpkin and squash crop is lost

He said he hopes people with reservations will still come to Bethel for other reasons.

There are lots of other fun things to do. We're trying to be as positive as we can. There's nothing we can do about the foliage. It's like a hurricane in the Caribbean — an act of nature," he said.

Martin also said he is hopeful the inn will pick up some early, walk-in foliage seekers.

Bethel's Douglass of the Douglass Inn, Bed and Breakfast in Mayville also hopes the tourists will still come.

"We'll depend on them," she said. "Douglass said her long-range foliage season reservations made over the past months are down, but isn't sure why — it's unlikely people were anticipating the weather that far ahead.

Word about the foliage has certainly gotten out in southern New England. Leaves there are changing early as well — if they're lucky. In Connecticut, white oaks, chestnuts, and sugar maples are dropping their leaves while they are still green.

Orchards, farms — mixed reviews

Bethel area orchardists and farmers are either counting their blessings or their losses, generally depending on how close they are to a river.

"I've never seen anything like this," said Herb Lyon of Bethel. Lyon has grown mostly MacIntosh and Cortland apples at his Grover Hill orchard since 1953.

He expects to get about 10 bushels a tree from trees that usually produce 15 to 25. He said the apples are smaller than normal.

"The trees on higher ground are really hurting. Some of the smaller trees were planted where there's

Parkway bids low; work could start by next week

By MICHAEL DANIELS

The contract for the Bethel Station Parkway was expected to be awarded this week.

The Maine Department of Transportation received four bids on the project, all of which were below MDOT's estimate of $1.5 million, according to Allen Smith, a public works manager at the department. MDOT is expected to award the contract by the end of the week.

The low bid, at $1,000,000, came from Pratt & Son Inc. of Mechanic Falls. The three remaining bids ranged from $1,000,000 to $1,500,000.

The project includes two major components: the parkway itself and construction of Lincoln Street, including water, sewer and storm drains.

The cost of the parkway component, approximately $700,000, is being paid for by MDOT using a 80/20 mix of federal and state funds. (Prior to the initiation of the Bethel Station project, MDOT had been a part of the state's highway department.) The project is expected to be completed by the end of the year.

Ambulance barn to roll on Thursday

By MICHAEL DANIELS

A new ambulance barn will be well under way by Thursday, and the new barn will be making its way down Main Street.

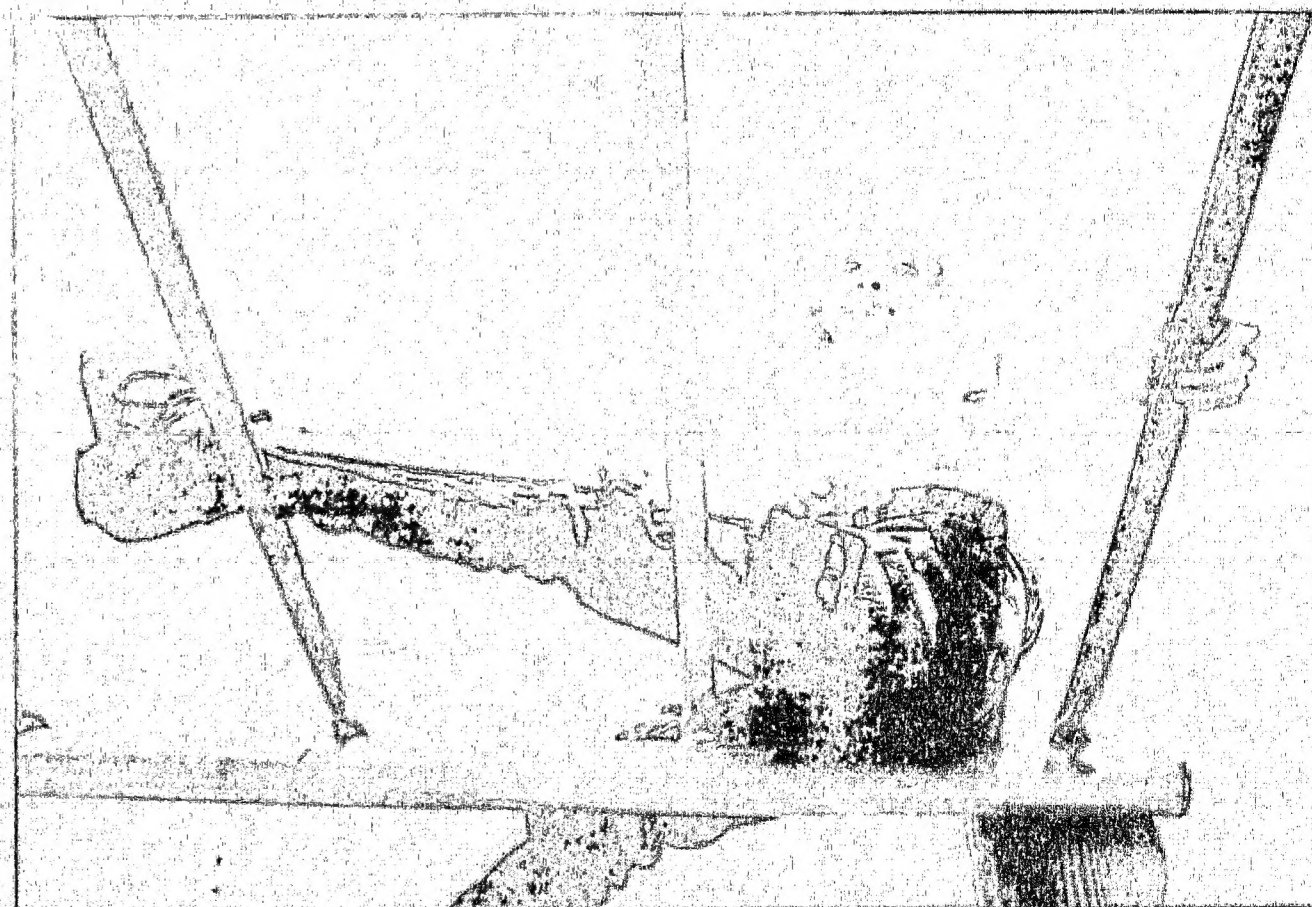

The new barn and new foundation, both paid for by the Bethel School District, represent the final phase of the last low-bid project approved by voters 18 months ago.

The new barn is expected to be ready for use by the end of the year, according to developer Hattie Merrill. Until the building is ready, the Bethel Emergency Ambulance Rescue Service will continue to use the temporary quarters in the former I. F. Davis Co. building.

Thursday's move is scheduled to begin just before 10 a.m. after the last school buses have returned to the SAEH garage.

Four to five hours have been allocated for the move, but a rain storm after dark may delay the move, according to Merrill.

The section of lower Main Street between Cross and Railroad Streets will also be closed when the barn makes the final approach to its new home.

Rebels field deep hockey squad

By ALISON ALOISIO

Telstar field hockey coach Gail Wright hopes she can translate depth into victory this season.

A turnout of 43 players holds the promise of a good season and a strong showing in the playoffs.

Last year's Rebels posted a 7-5 record in the Mountain Valley Conference, then lost 1-0 to Yarmouth in the first round of playoffs.

Working to improve on that are 10 returning varsity players, who are joined by 10 others moving up from the J.V. team. Several other J.V. players may move up later in the season.

This year's initial lineup: forwards Katy Mullen (senior co-captain), Liza Fyrborg (Jr.), Sarah Richardson (Jr.), Megan Meisner (Jr.), Kelli Szente (Jr.), Rachel Fogg (Jr.), Doreth Howard (Jr.), Beth Howe (Jr.) and Michelle McInnis (So.); links Carrie Mason (Jr.) and Monica Rolfe (Jr.); halfbacks M.J.

Learned (Sr.), Stephanie Curley (Jr.), Sarah Seames (Jr.), Jessica Pike (Jr.), Dani Littlehale (So.) and Hana Seames (So.); fullbacks Jenn Hurlbert (Sr.) and Jana Mason (Jr.); and goalie Jessie Wright (Jr. co-captain).

TRAPPING IS BARBARIC

To the Editor:

Regarding the article a few weeks ago pertaining to "Neil Olson's Trapline Adventure Stories," I was dismayed and appalled by Olson's glorification of such a barbaric, and in this day and age, unnecessary "sport" as trapping. How anyone can be amused by the suffering and decimation of animals is truly sad and disdainful, to say the least.

Not only was the featured illustration in poor taste (crude, amateurish cartoon of two men holding their kill of two adult and one baby beaver), but the titles of the chapters are equally as primitive ("Sex on the Beach," "Having Sex") and prove just how insensitive, archaic and ridiculous this type of thinking is in the '90s.

The paper also included an ad for Trappers' Weekend, (I hope this was a paid ad) which portrayed children, smiling faces and good ole' summer fun. If the promoters of this event had a truthful ad, which included photos of brutally trapped, frightened and suffering animals chewing on their extremities to free themselves, I wonder what draw they would have. How appropriate is it for children, especially young impressionable boys seeking the approval of their fathers, to emulate such violence towards living creatures?

I recently read a quote from Jeremy Betham which seems so appropriate here, "The question is not can they (animals) reason, not can they talk, but can they suffer?"

My guess is that the book will pass by, unnoticed. My fear is that trapping and this unsympathetic view towards the suffering of animals will continue until children are educated about the moral and environmental reasons to cherish and preserve our wildlife (which already struggles in such a fragile and ever-changing world), and until this pitiless "sport" becomes completely unprofitable.

BISBEE WAS ONE OF THE BEST

To the Editor:

I've read it all now! The "stern gaze" of Ethel Bisbee might be too much for small children to handle. Good Lord! What has happened to my home town?

I was a student of Mrs. Bisbee, approximately 36 years ago. Mrs. Bisbee was no pushover. Touchy-feely was not part of her persona. Promptness, obedience and compliance, although painful for some, were mastered in order to move on to the next grade. Many of us have been especially well in our life pursuits.

That some adults are concerned that her picture causes fear in some children is good for you for being responsible to your children! A suggestion to find out what's really going on with these kids. I highly doubt that Doug Bane created his artwork to scare children. And if it's been so scary, after all these years why is it now so fearful?

How teachers had as much influence on my brothers, my peers, and me as Mrs. Bisbee. If I may acknowledge Miss Helen Varner and Mrs. Frances Gaudier, you both join Mrs. Bisbee on my "best teacher" list.

Come on, Bethel! If you can't respect Mrs. Bisbee in the environment where she affected us most, at least find a respectful home for this very special woman.

HOPE STORY INSPIRES OTHERS

To the Editor:

The article featuring Tanya Koskela in last week's paper was very well done and demonstrates Alison Alsos's sensitivity and writing ability. We at the Adult Education program are also very proud of Mr. Koskela and hope that his story will encourage others to continue their learning. The staff at the Adult Learning Center, Lee Dolleman and Jeanette Bulfinch, are ready to assist adult learners with their goals, ranging from basic skills in reading, writing and math, to high school completion and brush-up for college or work. Kay Larson is available to assist with career guidance and planning for higher education.

Anyone who is interested in more information about our program, or specifically about high school completion, is welcome to call me at 824-2249. Our graduation is scheduled for Tuesday, May 28, 1996; we know Tanya Koskela will be there and hope that he will have a lot of company.

Again, thank you for the wonderful article!

SETTING OUT ON A NEW YEAR--A small group of Gould Academy students hike the Goose Eye section of the Appalachian Trail as part of their new-student orientation last week. Ninety-one new students broke into small groups with returning student proctors and faculty members and enjoyed three days of backpacking or canoeing on the trails, rivers, and lakes of Maine and New Hampshire. Opening its doors for the 150th time, Gould began classes on Monday with a full school of 220 students representing 21 states and 14 countries. Returning students arrived at Gould on Saturday for class registration and school meetings. Computers and internet access in all classrooms and the new Gould Academy Sunday River Competition Center promise to be highlights for the 1995-96 school year. (Photos by Scott Jeromes)

From the

Bethel Town Office

The following is a forecast for Maine's Regional Economies. These summaries are long-term average trends within the time horizon of 1994 to 2005. The information was first compiled on a regional basis and then all regions where combined to produce the state forecast.

Population, employment and per capita personal income will see slow growth. Generally, this growth will be seen in the coastal, southern and urban regions. The Androscoggin Valley Region, which encompasses Androscoggin, Franklin and Oxford counties, is predicted to be one of the slowest-growing regions in the state. Overall growth in Maine will be slower than the rest of the nation as a whole.

Statewide, the fastest growth in both employment and industrial output will be in the service industry. This includes health care, business services and hotels. Wholesale and retail trade is predicted to grow. The construction, transportation and public utilities sectors will see positive employment growth, at a rate higher than the national average. Manufacturing will experience a loss of employment yet increase in industrial output. Information prepared by University of Southern Maine, Center for Business and Economic Research.

We will soon be able to directly realize these projections with the completion of the Bethel Station. Phase I includes the construction of a hotel, restaurant, retail space and the movie theater. Phase II of the project includes additional retail, restaurant and office space, road construction.

The U.S. Department of Commerce, Economic Development Administration (EDA) is a major contributor of this project. EDA is in the business of providing funds to assist in the provision and/or upgrade of public infrastructure which will broaden employment opportunities. The creation and or upgrade of public works will be realized both within the project boundaries and off-site.

Rural Economic and Community Development (RECD), formerly (FmHA), has been contacted to assist in the financing of the town's share of the sewer treatment upgrade. It appears that Bethel is in a good position to receive money next year. Our strength lies in the fact that the upgrade is a holdover from the project FmHA started in Bethel in the mid-80s. This assistance will be presented in the form of 60/40 loan/grant package. A Town Meeting will be held for approval.

THIS WEEK AT THE Moses Mason House

The 30th annual meeting of the Bethel Historical Society was held Thursday in the meeting room of the Dr. Moses Mason House, with a potluck supper prior to the meeting.

Vice president Walter Hatch, presiding in the president's absence, cited highlights of the past year since the last annual meeting: over 50 new members added, more than 50 donors have made donations to the collections, several successful special events were held, three grants were received, the Annual Fund Drive raised over $8,500 from more than 300 donors, three family reunions were held this summer at the Dr. Moses Mason House, a summer exhibit on China attracted wide interest, and the prepublication sales of the society's latest publications project, a history of the Richardson Lakes, totaled over 500 copies sold to date. Mr. Hatch thanked all who had made such a record possible.

A moment of silence was observed for all those members who had died since the last annual meeting: Guy P. Butler, Louis Paul, Archibald Post, Harriett Stowell, Olive Grover Ferguson, Jeanette Sanborn Pottsaid, Paul A. Juddkins, Charles Smith, Maxine Brown, Winifred Page, Beverly K. Haines, Ann Hackwell, and Norma Jodrey.

Arlene Lowell, chair of the Nominating Committee, reported the following nominations: president, Charles F. Raymond; vice president, Walter Hatch; secretary and clerk of the trustees, Shireen Vincent; treasurer, Roger Conant; trustees for three years, Lorrie Hoch and Margaret Wight. The report of the committee was received without dissent and all of the above were elected. Mr. Hatch expressed the society's gratitude to retiring trustees Olive Anderson and Barbara Houkala for their service on the board.

The vice president presented five honorary membership to the following: Margaret Joy Tibbets, Don Brown, Allan Fraser, Willard Wight and Geraldine Howe. This is the society's highest membership award and is reserved only for those who are at least 75 years of age and possess an outstanding record of service to the organization.

Former trustee chairman, Margaret Joy Tibbets, presented the 1995 Marjorie MacArthur Noll Volunteer Service Award to Rodney and Geraldine Howe for over 20 years of service to the society on many fronts.

The program featured a presentation on railroads and Maine tourism by Associate Professor Richard W. Judd of the University of Maine.

Mr. Hatch thanked the Special Projects Committee, headed by Persis Post, for hosting the supper and Barbara Herrick Brown for providing the flowers.

The vice president announced that the next meeting would be held on Oct. 5 and will feature the annual "What's It" night. Anyone with an unusual item was urged to bring it for display and discussion.

The "Artifact of the Month" was a marble tablet dedicated to the memory of Bethel-born Annie Gould, placed in the Seaman's Bethel Church in Portland shortly after her beheading by the Boxers in China in 1900. It was rescued by her family in the 1950s when the church was demolished and is the gift of Richard and Susan Gould Hennessey of Kennebunk.

Woodstock town garage broken into

WOODSTOCK--Vandals have been getting into the old town garage near the library on Route 26, according to town manager Vern Maxfield. The garage is used for storage. Maxfield said access was gained by breaking doors or pulling boards away from the bottom of the outside walls. Road commissioner Percy Monk said oil and grease had been spilled, and small items set on fire. Maxfield suggested at last week's selectmen's meeting that a few hundred dollars be spent to patch up the garage enough to keep the vandals out for the winter. The town could then plan a more thorough repair job on the building for another year. Selectmen also plan to call a special Town Meeting in early October. The tentative warrant includes articles for the adoption of minimum lot and holding tank ordinances, as well as another to rescind a vote at the regular Town Meeting in March regarding distribution of Woodstock scholarship money. Townspeople had voted to give money that had been left over in the fund to past Telstar graduates. Maxfield said that vote was procedurally illegal because it changed the body of the warrant article.

Five escape injury on Cross St.

BETHEL--Five people escaped injury Saturday afternoon when two vehicles collided at the intersection of Cross Street and Route 2. A car driven by Carolyn Brennan, 30, of Brooklyn, N.Y., was traveling west on Route 2. Brennan attempted to turn left onto Cross St., and was struck by an east-bound pick-up truck driven by Bethany Espanola, 25, of Worcester, Mass. Brennan's passenger, Thomas Brennan, and Espanola's passengers, Mindy and Christopher Robinson, were checked by Bethel Rescue, as were the drivers. All refused transport to a hospital.

Langlois appointed to School Board

NEWRY--Selectmen last week appointed David Langlois to replace Martin Hinkle on the SAD44 School Board. Hinkle resigned Sept. 4, after serving five months of a three-year term. At this week's meeting, selectmen authorized fire department officials to negotiate the purchase of a 1980 Ford pumper truck to replace the present 1956 truck.

D.A. urges locker searches

PORTLAND--Cumberland County schools have been urged to conduct random searches of student lockers for drugs and alcohol, but the Maine Civil Liberties Union says searches are one more step in the erosion of students' rights. Changes in search-and-seizure law have given educators more latitude to search lockers for drugs and alcohol -- as long as they have a clear policy stating they intend to do so. Cumberland County District Attorney Stephanie Anderson said in a letter to schools. Administrators at several school districts have a policy of opening a specific locker if they have reason to believe it contains contraband. But Anderson's letter said more widespread searches are allowed. As a result, some schools are considering toughening their policies and may institute random searches. The prosecutor said in a fact sheet sent to schools that if they don't assert their right to conduct random searches, they could lose it. "School officials should conduct periodic health and safety searches ... even if no violations of the law or school rules are suspected," the document advised. The ACLU asserts such searches go too far.

Appalachian Trail goes international

PORTLAND--A group working to extend the Appalachian Trail into Canada has received permission to establish 11 miles of trail along the U.S. Canadian border. The section will become part of a segment of the trail that starts on the north slope of Mars Hill Mountain and continues to Fort Fairfield. Former Gov. Joseph Brennan had proposed extending the trail in 1994. Representatives from Maine, Quebec, and New Brunswick have been working on the project since then. The proposed international trail would extend from Mount Katahdin to Mt. Carleton in New Brunswick, then continue westward to Mt. Jacques Cartier on Quebec's Gaspé Peninsula. The group has set a goal of establishing the full route, about 444 miles, by April of 2000.

State ski areas losing money

FRANCONIA, N.H.--Most of the people who testified at two hearings on how to operate New Hampshire's state-run ski areas want the state to keep the areas, even though it's a losing proposition for the budget. Many witnesses at legislative hearings in Franconia and Newport suggested better advertising, fewer free tickets and improvements at Mount Sunapee and Cannon Mountain might turn them around. Others, however, said the state should not be spending money on skiing, when it is cutting things like medical benefits to the elderly. The mountains have lost at least $1 million combined a year for the last five years. Some at the hearing thought the state would likely be able to dictate terms to private companies that might lease the ski operations. "There is no money in Concord," said Franconia Inn owner Richard Morris. "I am for a change."

Dry spell closes Washington school

WASHINGTON--Students at Prescott Memorial School had an abbreviated return to classes last week after the school's water supply failed and they were sent home early, according to the Knox County Courier-Gazette. The school staff realized the middle of the day last Tuesday that the building was without water. Plumbers were testing the well and its holding capacity and current water level late in the week, trying to determine when the school might reopen.

Motorcyclists donate to Toys for Tots

AUGUSTA--Maine's governor and congressional delegation joined an annual charity motorcycle run that drew 10,000 bikers Sunday. A total of 20,000 motorcyclists and passengers brought an estimated $200,000 worth of gifts -- mostly stuffed animals -- that were packed in three trucks. The presents will be distributed by the Salvation Army at Christmas as part of the Toys for Tots program. Toys for Tots serves poor children across the state. A leather-jacketed Gov. Angus King drove a Harley-Davidson at the front of the miles-long pack that roared across Augusta. The annual event began in 1981, when about 300 bikers brought gifts to the capital.

$50,000 pool tournament in Portland

PORTLAND--Spot Shots Billiards in Portland will be the site of a pool tournament this week that features many of the world's top players. Prize money will be close to $50,000. Spot Shots manager Kerry Herbert said it is the largest tournament in New England history. Former world champion Grady Matthews will be one participant. Matthews had a starring role in the Tom Cruise/Paul Newman film "The Color of Money." Herbert said the hall has room for about 300 fans, and he expects all the seats to be filled.

Rock & roll on Channel 10

LEWISTON--A history of the music that has rocked the world for four decades is coming to public television. Rock & Roll, a 10-part series broadcast over five consecutive nights, begins Sunday, Sept. 24 at 9 p.m. on Maine Public Television stations. The program traces the evolution of rock music and the innovators who shaped it from the 1950's to the 1990's. From the story of Cholly Atkins, the man who choreographed the Temptations, to the reflections of Eric Clapton; from Carol King's insights about writing lyrics for the Shirelles to Madonna's success with "Vogue," to Run-DMC's thoughts about their career, Rock & Roll tells the 40-year tale of a popular art form. The series concludes on Sept. 28.

Wood exports up this year

WASHINGTON--U.S. wood exports are expected to reach a record $7.4 billion this year, with hardwood products leading the way. During the first half of the year, wood product exports rose 11 percent from the first half of last year, totaling $3.8 billion, according to the Agriculture Department's Foreign Agricultural Service. All of the top five markets for these products -- Japan, Canada, Germany, the United Kingdom and South Korea -- increased their purchases this year.

From the Bethel Police log:

Police called to too loud passion play at inn

On Sept. 7 at 10:50 p.m. a complainant came to the Police Department to report a male was possibly beating a female at the Bethel Inn, and that he might have a weapon. When police and two Oxford County Sheriff's Department units arrived, they could hear a female yelling loudly. They went to the second floor and listened for several seconds, and could still hear the female screaming and yelling. A loud thump was then heard, and the female began begging the male "not to" -- unknown what. The manager then knocked on the door and told them to open it. The male opened the door. He was not wearing any clothes, and the female was not in sight. Police asked the man what was going on, and he said nothing was going on. The female also said nothing was going on. There were no apparent marks on her, and she said everything was all right. It was apparent the two were involved in a sexual encounter, as there were items located throughout the room. The two were then warned to keep the noise down.

Also on Sept. 7

At 9:48 p.m. a Mechanic Street resident reported her live-in boyfriend had taken most of the belongings in the house and she wanted him to stop taking them. Police contacted the district attorney's office and determined it was a matter for civil court, as it was impossible to determine who the property really belonged to.

Friday, Sept. 8

At 5:15 p.m. a complainant called to report that while she and another subject were walking on Route 5 they observed two or three males talking with each other. When the complainant and her companion passed by, the males said they were looking for marijuana they had lost. Police later spoke with two male subjects on Route 2. While the officer was speaking with one, the other fled into the woods. The officer did not pursue as there were no charges.

At 6:08 p.m. police were asked to assist Bethel Rescue with a male choking on a piece of meat at the Bethel Inn. When the officer arrived he found the man was not choking -- he was just having a hard time swallowing the meat. The rescue unit arrived, and the man chose to be transported to the hospital.

Saturday, Sept. 9

At 12:56 a.m. a subject was stopped for speeding on Route 26. When the police officer approached the vehicle he observed a large bag of green, leafy material and smelled burning marijuana. The subject was asked to step from the vehicle and was given several commands. He was unable to do any of them. A large bag of what was believed to be marijuana was located behind the seat of the vehicle, and a pot pipe was found under the passenger seat. The subject was placed under arrest for OUI, transported to the Oxford County Sheriff's office, and given a breathalyzer test. The result was .11 percent. The subject was summoned for OUI, speeding, possession of drug paraphernalia, and possession of a civil amount of marijuana.

This report highlights points of interest from the Bethel Police Department log, but does not include all reports of police activity. To reach the Bethel Police Department, call 911 in emergency situations, 824-3437 in non-emergencies. An answering machine takes calls when an officer is not in the office.

Lenko Corporation, which sells snowmaking equipment. McAllister was assisted by Bethel Police chief Dale Bellman and officer Darren Tripp, as well as Bethel Rescue.

Telstar students injured

Three Telstar students on their way to school were injured around 7:30 a.m. in an accident on Route 5 in Albany, near Songo Pond.

Driver Brian Inman, 16, and passengers Dareth Howard, 15, and Jeremy Lapham, 16, were traveling north when the car went into the shoulder, according to state trooper Jim Corbett.

Corbett said Inman overcorrected, came back onto the road, and went into a spin, crashing into trees on the pond side of the road.

Inman was partially pinned in his seat, while Howard and Lapham were thrown from the car.

All three were taken by Bethel Rescue to Stephens Memorial Hospital in Norway. Inman suffered a fractured ankle, and broken collarbone and shoulder blade; Lapham received a head laceration and a broken left elbow; and Howard was being evaluated for possible broken bones in her legs.

McAllister said driver inexperience was a factor in the accident -- Inman got his driver's license in July. Speed is also being investigated, and could result in charges if found to be a factor.

He said neither passenger was wearing a seat belt. Since Maine law requires seat belts be worn by occupants under 19, charges could result there as well.

"If they had been wearing seat belts, they wouldn't have been ejected from the vehicle, and probably would have had only minor injuries. The damage was all on the driver's side," McAllister said.

All three occupants were from Albany. The car, a 1985 Volkswagen Golf, was totaled.

Hockey

An offense led by last year's leading scorer, Junior Beth Howe, is the early season strength of the squad. Wight, though, is still looking for improvement.

"We want to score more goals than last year. Last season some shots just missed the cage, and in a conference where a lot of games were decided by one goal, you can't miss," Wight said last week.

The defense is rebuilding after losing several players to graduation.

"We're working on the defense to get the right combination," said Wight.

She said 20 freshmen have come out for field hockey this year, and a few may move up to the varsity over the course of the season. The overall turnout of 43 players is about a dozen more than usual.

The Mountain Valley Conference is becoming more balanced than in the past, Wight said, as more schools develop middle school programs, to feed the high school teams.

"There used to be teams we could blow out -- we can't do that anymore," she said.

Formidable opposition will come from defending Class B state champs Leavitt High School. Still, Wight is optimistic.

"We hope to stay in the top three teams in the conference, and go another step in the playoffs," she said.

wonder why I feel I must get ready to go back again. Was it because I loved children and the years just vanished?

What a nice summer it was. Bradley and Ann enjoyed boating at Mooshead Lake on the weekend. The waters here were busy with boating. Milton and Eleanor Inman went touring. Just that, for fun. I didn't tour or go boating, but I had a pleasant weekend. I had supper Saturday evening with Larry and Jean Schaefer at their camp. It was "A best" way to spend an evening. There's a radiant glow at an old friend's house that drives gloom away. On Sunday with the family there is always a glow, too, which I enjoy each week.

House (still in the making). Sylvia and Bill reported on their M.S.A. meeting in Bangor last August. There were reports on trail repairs, etc., and it was agreed that the club would contact land owners sometime in the future and talk some business. Next meeting will be Tues., Oct. 3, at the same place. Coffee and goodies were enjoyed with a lot of lively conversation.

Pat and Dan Riley, Nancy and Dick Carbonneau of Milan, N.H., paid a visit to Norm and Louise Tetley on Labor Day.

Karlene Bachelder, Betsy Clark, Gil Seeley, Louise Tetley, Doris Parent, Bea Lowell and Olive Anderson, all members of the "Newry Bowling Gang," were at the Oxford Lanes, Rumford, one day last week. On the overall scores, Betsy was high on the triples and singles with one string of 118. Of the "Righties," Doris was high on both the triples and singles.

The Stoneham Church Thrift Shop still has some good bargains and the $1-a-bag is still on. They have some nice fall clothes, like sweaters, sweatshirts, jackets, slacks, pants, etc., also goodies on the Food Sale table. They will be closing for the winter sometime soon, so come on in. There are still some "Stoneham Remembered" books for sale.

The Town of Stoneham Special Town Meeting, which was scheduled for Sept. 5 at 7:30 p.m., was postponed Tuesday night on account of disclosures from the bank that were not in yet. This was regarding the addition onto the fire station.

At 7:30 Tuesday night, a meeting was called to order with Robert J. Thompson, executive director of Androscoggin Valley Council of Governments. An overview of the community Development Black Grants and Development Funds was presented by Linda Wood, an economic development specialist. Joe Cassinova spoke about the proposal of developing and distributing spring water from the Evergreen Valley area. It seems there has to be all kinds of planning, legal work and paperwork before the applications and permits are to be issued.

There will be another meeting and public hearing before anything can be done on this project. I believe this is scheduled to be held on Sept. 18 at 7:30 p.m.

Albert Nelson has just had a load of tree-length wood delivered to work on. That will keep him busy, won't it, and there's more to come. Winter will be here before we know it, so we like the Boy Scout motto, "Be prepared."

Don't forget the Stoneham Church supper on Thursday, Sept. 14, and the firemen's supper at the station on Saturday night, Sept. 16. These are good suppers and for good causes. See you there.

One day last week, the Truman house, next to the Dabnum house on Route 5 here in Stoneham, was demolished by the Town of Stoneham. C.F. Barker Inc. did the work. Soon after, a pink poodle appeared in the neighborhood seemingly protecting a wood pile. Uninvolved mystery - how did it get there?

Arlene Bernier is seriously ill in Stephens Memorial Hospital. Her friends wish her a speedy recovery. Gary Crosby of South Hampton, N.H., a summer resident of Back Street, won a beautiful crystal trophy Saturday, Aug. 26, at the Balsams Golf Club in Dixville Notch, playing in the Handicap division. Margaret Mitchell and Tex Fogwill entertained her family on Sunday, Aug. 13, their 11th family homecoming. Thirty-seven attended. Present were her sister Tillie F. Grundy of Sebago Lake and Florida; Ann and John Rizzo of Georgetown, Texas; sister Ethel Dow and husband Lee of Ocean Park (Maine);

Ethel's family, Ed and Lori Presby, Angela and Eryn Presby, Elaine Presby, Kris, Jansson and Nate of Old Orchard; sister-in-law Muriel Fiedler of Florida; her family, Muriel A. and Carl Scott of Boothbay; Judie Williams and fiancé Jerry Conley, and Philip Williams of South Portland; sister-in-law Felicia Griffin of Westbrook; Margaret's daughter, Jackie Tedchenko; grandchildren Wendy Trotter, Aimee Tedchenko, and Andrea Bumham; grandson Joel Tedchenko and wife Robin; great-grandchildren Miranda and Paul Tedchenko, Christine and Sara Trotter of New Hampshire; Margaret's son-in-law, Richard Donovan Sr. and wife Jackie; grandson Rick Donovan and wife Laura of Scarborough; and Adrienne Glazer of Old Orchard. Beautiful weather and good companionship made for a lovely day.

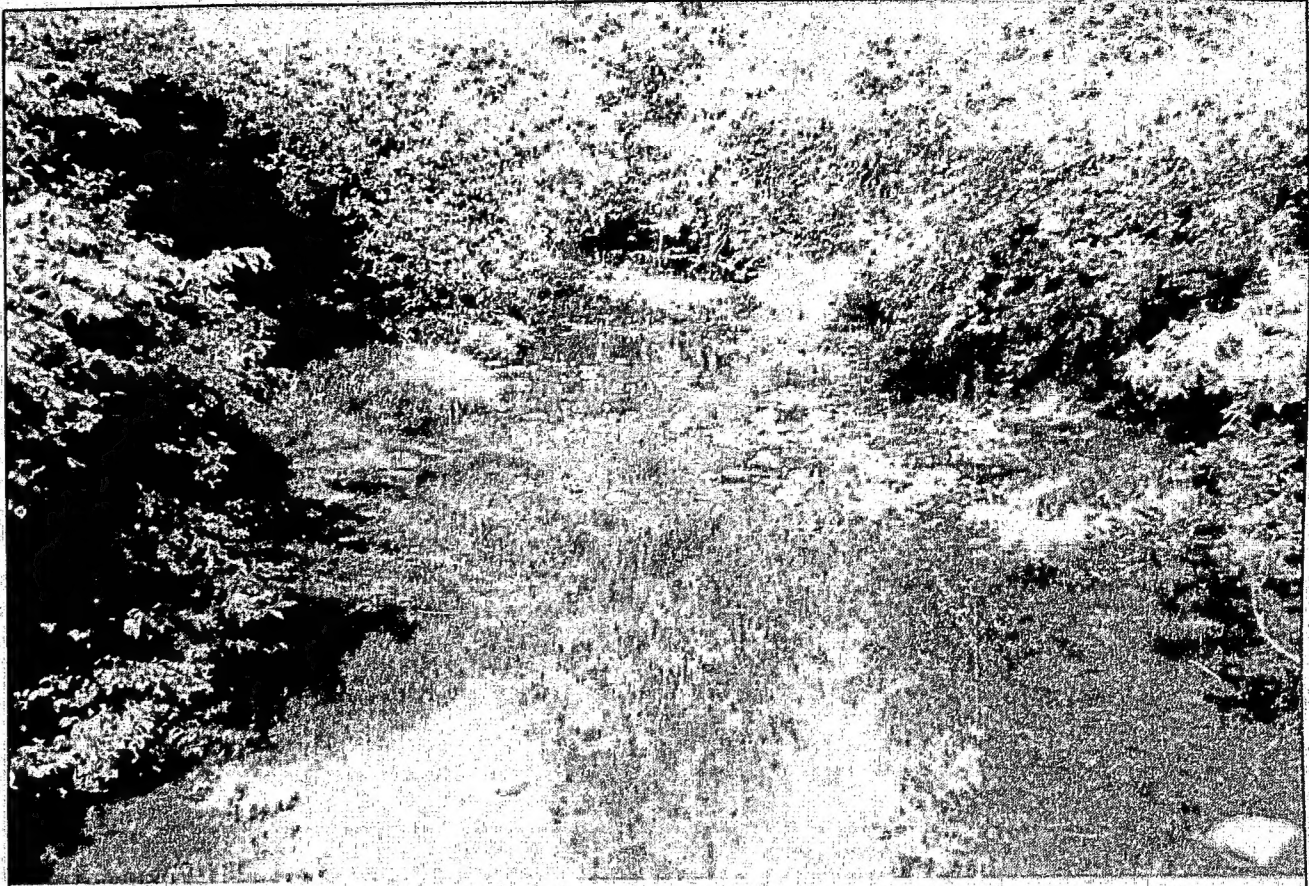

Saturday, Sept. 3, Richard and Jackie Donovan and friends, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Marles, spent the day with Margaret Mitchell to celebrate her 80th birthday.

Monday, Sept. 4, Tillie Grundy, Ethel and Lee Dow and Felicia Griffin joined Margaret for a belated birthday party.

Tuesday, Sept. 5, Upton Ladies Aid presented Margaret Mitchell with a beautifully decorated birthday cake, many gifts and good wishes for her birthday. What a wonderful week for Margaret! She'll never have another 80th birthday like that.

Erlon and Maude Alice Hadley are celebrating their 40th wedding anniversary this month and will be taking a trip to Cape Cod. Congratulations.

Last Tuesday Tommy Poland, Janet Benson and I went to lunch at Country Way in South Paris. We all wanted to go there as it will be closing soon. They always have good food, and a lot of people will miss this well-known restaurant.

September birthdays I missed last time are Troy Ryerson, Joshua Appleby, Linda Smith and Darlene Hadley. Hope you all had a nice birthday.

Recent visitors at Nick and Marta Clements were their son, David and wife, Audrey and their granddaughter, Caroline, who will be one year old this month. David and family live in Birmingham, Alabama. Also, another son, Bruce and wife, Cindy and granddaughter, Sarah from Weare, N.H. spent some time with Nick and Marta. They all went to Northport to attend a Robertson/Clements reunion. Nick and Marta's other son, Eric, had planned to get home while everyone was here but had to work.

Barbara and Allen Goldberg and children from Scarsdale, N.Y. visited Nick and Marta on two separate occasions recently.

I saw Emily and Lacy Phillips proudly displaying the animals they will be taking to the Eastern State Fair in Massachusetts this month. Good luck. Larry Billings, curator, Woodstock Historical Society reports that Olive Risko and Kathleen McAllister watched the museum recently. Sylvia Clark gave a picture of the Baptist Church to the society.

Debbie Poland has a new car. It is a pretty red color and I'm sure she will enjoy it.

Many congratulations to Taisto Koskela on receiving his high school diploma at 75 years of age. This must have taken much hard work on his part. This is a difficult task for anyone and I also wish him luck on the book he plans to write.

Jackson-Silver Auxiliary

The first regular meeting of the new season was held on Sept. 7.

A project which the Unit has been working on for some time is to obtain pictures of all the past presidents. Recently the photos of Annie Noyes, elected in 1926; Grace Emery, '29; and Georgia Brooks, '32 were received due to the efforts of Dorothy McGray, Grace Evans and others of their family. Still needed are Edith Jackson '22, Jennie Currier '25, Basha Ackley '27, Bertha Austin '33 and Myrtle Clifford '35. If anyone has a picture of any of these ladies or knows where they might be obtained the members would be most grateful to hear from you.

In the remainder of the month the Unit will serve a light lunch at 1 p.m. on Sunday, Sept. 17 before the Flag Disposal Ceremony by the Post at 2 p.m. Some of the members will just have returned from the National Leadership Workshop in Westborough, Mass.

There will be a meeting of Oxford

County Council at Buckfield on Sept. 19 and a regular Post and Unit meeting on Sept. 21. The annual Fall Conference is Sept. 30 and Oct. 1 in Millinocket and at least two members plan to attend.

In October there will be another musical supper on Oct. 10 with the Parisians furnishing the dance music. The meal will be a boiled dinner topped off with homemade apple, squash and pumpkin pies. The cost will be $6.

On Oct. 19 those who were delegates to Boys and Girls State last June will be honored with a supper to which their families are also invited.

At the present time the Unit members are busy selling chances on a quilt made by member Shirley Lowell. It is queen size, covered with beautiful cross stitch and machine quilted. Shirley says it took her two years to do the whole thing. Proceeds will be used to upgrade and maintain the kitchen equipment at the Legion Hall in Locke Mills.

The next meeting, Wednesday, Oct. 4 will be the annual meeting.

There will be a dance at the Town Hall on Sept. 30.

Saturday, Aug. 26 was the last day the building was open to visitors for this season and the Society wishes to thank all those who came to visit.

Donald Kimball furnished the entertainment for this meeting, and his wife, Joan, furnished the refreshments. Mary Mills will furnish refreshments for the October meeting. At the present time, there is no entertainment scheduled for the next meeting.

GREENWOOD HISTORICAL

The Greenwood Historical Society met Sept. 6 for the regular meeting with president Joan Kimball presiding. There were 18 members in attendance. Mary Bean and Arthur Hertell became new members.

Life member of the society, Gilbert Woodsum of Saugus, Mass., who was celebrating his 98th birthday, recently came to Locke Mills to visit places dear to him in his childhood. He was accompanied here by his grandson, Stephen Woodsum and wife, from Kennebunk, and visited around by Elaine Mills.

NOYES REUNION

The 3rd Noyes Reunion was held at Tenhill Pond in Greenwood on Aug. 26. There were 54 in attendance, from as far away as Pennsylvania and Florida. Co-presidents for this year were Hugh and Denise Swan.

A potluck dinner was served and a brief business meeting followed. Co-presidents for 1996 are Sherbourne and Tracy Noyes. The secretary is Denise Swan. Adelaide Gerrish of Portland was the oldest and Rachelle O'Neil of Augusta was the youngest. Everyone enjoyed the warm, sunny weather and a few from the younger generation also swam.

FUNDS AVAILABLE FOR COMMUNITY HISTORIES

The Maine Humanities Council has announced the availability of funds statewide to nonprofit organizations interested in developing Community History Projects.

For projects starting in September 1995, as much as $80,000 will be available over a two-year period for grants ranging from $50 to $750. The Community History Grant Program is a primary component of The Century Project: Modern Times in Maine & America, 1890-1930, a two-year initiative intended to stimulate a renewed public awareness of the crucial role the early 20th century played in shaping modern identity.

The Community History Grant Program is intended to encourage people in Maine to learn more about themselves and the sig-

GREENWOOD BRIDGE WORK

Maintenance work will reduce Morgan Bridge on Route 219 in Greenwood to alternating one-way traffic beginning Monday, Sept. 18, according to the Maine Department of Transportation. The bridge carries Route 219 over Morgan Brook between West Paris and Greenwood.

"The existing wearing surface, or top layer of the bridge deck, is deteriorated and cracking. It needs to be replaced to protect the remainder of the deck from water and road salt and to provide a better ride for vehicles using the bridge," said Everett B. Barnard, head of MDOT's Bridge Maintenance section.

"We plan to work on one side of the bridge at a time, using the other side to maintain alternating one-way traffic controlled by 'Yield' signs," Barnard said. The work is expected to be completed by early November.

ASK A LAWYER

Do the visitation rights of a non-custodial parent prevent the custodial parent from moving out of state with the child?

In Maine, the Courts must make provisions for any children involved in a divorce, including decisions as to parental rights and responsibilities, physical residence, visitation, and support.

The law provides that either party may return to court to amend or modify the divorce judgment when there is a "substantial change in circumstances." Here, where the parent with primary physical residence is planning to move out of state with the child, there is certainly such a "substantial change."

The parent with visitation rights should return to court to ask for a modification. The parents, their attorneys, and the judge will draw up a new decree to be in "the best interests of the child."

If the parent is seeking to move has sole parental rights and responsibilities, the only change would probably be a modification of the visitation schedule, and perhaps the parents' respective responsibilities for bearing the burden of travel connected with the visitation. However, if the parents have shared rights and responsibilities, or even shared physical residence of the child, the court might order a more radical modification of the original judgment, including a requirement that the physical residence of the child switch to the parent remaining here. Again, the standard used will be "the best interests of the child."

Remember, each case depends entirely on the specific circumstances of the parents and child or children involved, as well as the terms of the original decree. No two cases are exactly alike. In each case, however, the parent seeking to move the residence of a child out of state should provide written notice of such intent to the other parent, to protect against kidnapping allegations. It is also wise to keep a copy of this.

ALPINE RACERS IN THE LAB—Gould Academy sophomore Drew Drummond of Freedom, N.H., shuffles his feet in an alpine ski racing test as Gould's Director of Skiing Tim LaVallee checks the stopwatch. Drummond is currently ranked 25th in the nation in slalom among several thousand 15-year-olds. Sixteen racers spent four days running, jumping, and thinking about skiing at the training/testing camp before the Academy's regular student orientation began on Saturday. (Photo by Scott Jerome)

PROJECT GRADUATION ORGANIZERS TO MEET

The first meeting to plan this year's Project Graduation activities will take place September 19. Committee co-chair Gail Wight said organizers encourage this year's junior class members and their parents to get involved in the project.

"We're looking for their input on what they would like to see for Project Graduation in the future," she said.

The program sponsors activities for seniors during graduation week in June.

The meeting is at 6:30 p.m. in room 106 at Telstar.

Agnes Gray School

by Marta Clements

We are off and running, Wednesday, Sept. 13, from 6:30 to 7:30, will be the open house for the big school. The kindergarten and first grade held their open house before school started. Take this opportunity to acquaint yourselves with your children's teachers, schedules, and expectations for the new year. The annual fall Book Fair will be open at this time, also. Children will be able to browse and buy from the 12th to the 14th during the morning hours, as well as at the Open House.

An expanded project for all grade levels this year involves recycling. We have been doing recycling of quality paper, newspapers, and cardboard for some time. This year we are including the magazine and junk mail bin and the mixed paper bin. Our trash should be greatly reduced. We are also remembering to reuse as well as recycle. We still have our free magazine rack for children and adults. We encourage reading any way we can. We are proud to be doing our part toward helping both our towns and our environment.

We have several new students to welcome this year. Brand new to school are 21 kindergarten students. Our newest learners are: Sarah Bailey, Sanya Baker, John Davey, Janet Deane, Joshua Farnum, Amanda Farrar, Carol Fongemie, Amanda Heath, Brian Hsley, Bryan Leane, Jonathan Libby, Kami Marver, Nicole Marshall, Lyndon Mason, Casey Ramsay, Cynthia Santo, Daniel Seinto, Zachary Severance, Christopher Stevens, Lindsey Tripp, and Megan Whitman. Their teacher is Mrs. Biggers, and they are all looking forward to an exciting year.

Mrs. Cindy Mullen is ready for her first-graders, and new this year are: Tyler Bennett, Grady Guy and Jenelle Pilgrim. Unfortunately, Jenelle has chicken pox and will have to delay her start with us.

Mrs. Loper, who moved up from first grade to second grade with her students, is welcoming three new ones also: Sarah Brulotte, Melissa Gully, and Dennis Russell. And Mrs. Merrill, who moved from second grade to third grade with her students, is welcoming Scott Hill and Seth Tripp to her class.

Grades four, five, and six are welcoming a total of eight new students. Patrick Elsmann, Benjamin Gully, Scott Young, and Alan Young Jr. are in grade four; Erika Cochran, grade five; and Justin Elsmann, Michael Stevens Jr. and Katcha Turner have joined the sixth graders.

NOTES FROM

T.M.S. Guidance

Over half of the Telstar Middle School student body attended the year's first Activity Night sponsored by the Middle School Student Forum. There were 140 sixth, seventh, and eighth-graders, who started the evening with roller blading and skate boarding outside and face painting and dancing in the cafeteria area. The gymnasium was filled with hoop shooters and potential jumpers.

Mike Mullen from Buckfield provided a 90-minute juggling workshop in the gym from 7 to 8:30 p.m.

Boys' Cross Country

Sept. 5 -- Jason Billings placed third, Dana Howe eighth, and Ryan Bernier 11th in a meet against Dirigo, Mt. Abram, and Livermore.

Girls' Cross Country

Sept. 5 -- Becky Chandler finished third, Shanna Walker sixth, Dawn Waisanen seventh, Heidi Blake eighth, and Martha Grover ninth in a meet against Dirigo, Mt. Abram, and Livermore.

Field Hockey

Telstar 4, Winthrop 0

Sept. 6 -- Telstar's 35 shots on goal produced four scores as Telstar defeated Winthrop Winthrop, meanwhile, only managed six shots throughout the game. Beth Howe scored three times and Liza Fyberg once. Fyberg assisted Howe on two of her goals. Sarah Richardson and Michelle McInnis also helped out with offensive carries. The backfield defense was led by Jana Mason and Dani Littlehale. Rebel goalie Jessie Wight had four saves to Winthrop's 28. Telstar's first home game is Friday, against Livermore Falls.

TV viewers can question fish and wildlife commissioner

Outside Line, Maine Public Television's interactive program that allows viewers direct access to Commissioner of Inland Fisheries and Wildlife Ray Owen, returns with a new edition on Tuesday, Sept. 19 at 8 p.m.

The program gives viewers an opportunity to ask the commissioner directly about new laws and regulations which may affect their sport, as well as any other concerns they may have about outdoor activities.

When it premiered at the beginning of the spring and summer recreational season back in May, Outside Line was viewed as an overwhelming success, generating calls from across the state on a variety of issues and concerns. This new edition of the program will again be hosted by MPTV's Don Carrigan.

The program will also be rebroadcast on Wednesday, Sept. 20 at 1 p.m. on the stations of Maine Public Radio: 89.7, 90.1 Portland, 90.9 Bangor, 91.3 Waterville, 106.1 Presque Isle and 106.5 Fort Kent.

THE 1995 TELSTAR HIGH SCHOOL CROSS-COUNTRY TEAM is just that -- a team. With low turnout always a problem, coach John Applin is pleased to have enough runners to compete and score as a team in meets. A minimum of five runners each are required for the boys' and girls' teams. Applin expects overall performance this year to be up from last. "I think both teams will be stronger. For the boys, Dana Howe and Jason Billings are both running better at this point in the season than they were last year. Dana is about a month ahead because he practiced in the summer," Applin said. He said the girls lost a key runner with the graduation of Amy Howe, who often ran way out in front in last year's competitions. "But this year they're finishing close together, and respectably as a group," he said. The teams generally run a 5,000-meter course -- about 3.1 miles. Also running with the girls' team (but not competing officially) is eighth-grader Jenny Howe. The middle school does not have a team this year. Pictured here, from left, are (front): Martha Grover (So.), Jenny Howe (8th gr.), Shanna Walker (So.), Becky Chandler (Sr.), Heidi Blake (Sr.), Dawn Waisanen (Sr.). Back: Jason Billings (Jr.), Tim Nickerson (So.), Mark Tripp (Sr.), Dana Howe (So.); coach Applin. Absent: Jerry Bernier (Jr.) and Keith Chadbourne (Sr.).

RECYCLING AWARDS

The Northeast Resource Recovery Association (NRRA) is accepting nominations for its 1995 Recycling Awards. These awards, presented annually since 1988, honor those programs and individuals who have made the most outstanding contributions to waste reduction and recycling efforts throughout the tri-state region of Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont.

There are four award categories: Municipal Recycling Program, Business Waste Reduction/Recycling Program, Recycling Employee and Recycler of the Year.

"Most municipalities throughout the region, and a rapidly increasing number of businesses have active waste reduction and recycling programs," said NRRA executive director Dana Draper. "With evidence of so much diversity and innovation in the field, we hope to receive a flood of nominations this year. Remember, no person or program can win who isn't nominated."

Nomination applications must be received at the NRRA office no later than Sept. 29, 1995. Anyone can submit a nomination in any of the award categories. A panel of judges representing municipal, state and private recycling organizations will review the applications and select the winners, who will be recognized at an awards ceremony on November 16.

NRRA is a regional nonprofit membership organization providing recyclables marketing services, cooperative purchasing and technical assistance in the broad areas of municipal waste management and recycling.

For an application or further information about the 1995 Recycling Awards, call 603-224-6996 or write: NRRA, Box 721, Concord, N.H. 03302-0721.

Sleeping Beauty marionette show

The Mahoosuc Arts Council will present the Vermont-based National Marionette Theatre and their production of "The Sleeping Beauty" on Saturday, Sept. 16, at 7 p.m. at Telstar Regional High School. Advance ticket purchases may be made at Preb's Pharmacy in Bethel or call the Mahoosuc Arts office at 824-3575 for reservations until Friday, Sept. 15. Advance ticket prices are $5 for adults and $3 for children under 12. Tickets sold at the door will cost $7 for adults and $5 for children.

This beloved fairy tale about a sleeping princess under a wicked enchantment has been a favorite for generations. It has all the elements of fantasy to excite the imagination: fairy gifts and curses, a magic spinning wheel, an enchanted thornwood forest, the prince's battle with a fire-breathing dragon...and love's first kiss. Using the music from Tchaikovsky's ballet score as an integral part of the show, the National Marionette Theatre has mounted a beautiful production with sumptuous sets and costumes.

The National Marionette Theatre has been in existence for 35 years. Each season the company tours world wide with productions for adults as well as family audience. Noted not only for the beautiful visual look of each show but also for their manipulation technique, they have received numerous awards for their excellence in the field of puppetry.

DYSLEXIA: A common reading problem that does not reflect a person's level of intelligence

My five-year-old son is having trouble learning to read. He often skips words when reading out loud to me. Is this normal for a beginning reader? I'm wondering if this is a sign that he has dyslexia.

Many young children struggle with learning to read, and the reasons vary. However, you are right to wonder whether your son is displaying a sign of dyslexia, a disorder in which an individual experiences difficulty reading or spelling. Omitting words or letters when reading aloud or writing is a prominent sign of the condition.

Other signs of the disorder are low reading comprehension, reading slowly, and distorting or reversing words. A person with dyslexia may, for instance, mistake the word "dog" for "god." The problem is often detected by teachers and parents during a child's first year of school.

You should consult your pediatrician on the matter, as she or he can refer you to the appropriate specialist, such as a pediatric neurologist or a neuropsychologist, who can perform specialized tests to evaluate whether your son does indeed have dyslexia. It is possible that your son's reading difficulties are caused by some other problem, such as a visual or hearing impairment, in which case your pediatrician can at least begin the diagnosis process.

The condition affecting people of all intelligence levels, is not an indication of mental deficiency. It is believed to affect between 5 and 10 percent of all children and tends to persist into adulthood, although symptoms may improve or even disappear over time in individuals with mild cases. Many extremely bright people, including some individuals considered to be "geniuses," have had the condition.

Because dyslexia has only been widely recognized and diagnosed during the last two decades, the problem historically has caused distress and confusion for children, their parents and teachers. Because it was not treated, the condition interfered with the development of patients' reading and writing skills. Now that it is a recognizable condition, dyslexia can be diagnosed through sophisticated testing and treated through special tutoring.

"While children may struggle with the condition, particularly in school, it is possible to learn ways to compensate for the problem that allow a child to succeed at high levels both academically and vocationally," says Roberta White, PhD, director of clinical neuropsychology at Boston University Medical Center.

While the exact cause of dyslexia is unknown, it has long been thought to be genetic in nature. It does appear to run in families, though not in all cases. A recent study, published in the journal "Science," fuels this position. In two different groups of people with family histories of dyslexia, researchers located a region on chromosome 6 that is associated with the reading disorder. With this critical genetic link now identified, investigators can begin their search for the gene on that chromosome that actually causes dyslexia. Identifying this gene may make it possible to screen infants at birth for the disorder and to treat the condition early on, long before a child enters school. Early treatment can ameliorate the distress and frustration that a child experiences as a result of reading problems in the classroom.

"The implications of this finding are enormous, as it may enable parents and teachers to address the reading impediment early on in a child's education, before the child experiences frustration and failure when he first enters school," says White.

While you may choose to wait a while longer to see if your son outgrows his current difficulty with reading, it would be wise to discuss the issue with your son's pediatrician before too long. She or he can perform a number of useful tests that can determine the extent and nature of the problem, and send you to the appropriate specialist if it's deemed necessary. With proper guidance, your son will be able to learn alongside his peers in the classroom with little or no obstacles, academic or emotional.

This "Matters of Health" was written in cooperation with Roberta White, PhD, director of clinical neuropsychology at Boston University Medical Center. Readers with questions about dyslexia or those who wish to discuss other health issues may contact B.U. Health Connection, at 617-686-6767.

Apartment repair loans

The Maine State Housing Authority is offering low-cost loans to finance development of 120 or more affordable rental housing units in Maine. Most of the apartments would be rented to low- or very-low-income tenants, said acting MSHA Development Director Carol Dudley.

The housing authority will offer nearly $2 million in financing for these units, Dudley said. The apartments will be another step towards addressing Maine's need for higher-quality affordable apartments for the state's low-income renters.

The funding is under two MSHA programs. The Statewide Housing Acquisition and Rehabilitation Program (SHARP) will provide $1.4 million to purchase and upgrade an estimated 8 to 12 substandard apartment buildings with a total of about 70 units.

Financing for the program comes from the agency's own housing bonds ($1 million) and $400,000 in federal HOME funds, which is used as a subsidy. The housing authority is targeting the loans to create 35 low- to very-low-income apartments.

The Rental Rehabilitation Program will provide $400,000 in loans, using the FedHome money, to owners of existing properties for the upgrading of units. The housing authority projects the financing will lead to rehabilitation of 50 apartment units, of which 40 will be rented to low- or very-low-income renters.

Both the SHARP and Rental Rehab programs are limited to smaller properties, those with three to 20 units. The loans will be awarded on a competitive basis. Developers have until Sept. 29 to submit applications.

MSHA HOMEBUYERS SHOW COMMITMENT TO HOME

Persons who use the Maine State Housing Authority's first-time homebuyer program are making a long-term commitment to owning the home, not just using it as a stepping stone to a more expensive house, according to a recent study of MSHA borrowers.

The housing authority recently studied 5,733 of its loans issued from 1983 through 1986. The survey found that 25 percent of the borrowers still lived in the home they purchased. The median length of ownership was eight years.

A recent (1993) national survey of homebuyers by the National Association of Realtors found that the median length of ownership was six years.

"The study indicates that people using MSHA loans are making a long-term commitment to owning the home, not just using it to leverage a more costly home," said MSHA Homeownership Division director Ann Crockett.

TRAIL'S END—Annie Law, 65, finished her 22-year hike of the Appalachian Trail on Saturday. Law, of Honeybrook, Pa., has hiked the 2,157.8-mile trail in bits and pieces since 1973. She has had surgery on both knees along the way. She finished the last 10 miles late Saturday, winding up on the East B Hill Road between Andover and Upton. Law picked a rare rainy day to complete her journey. "Everyone I met said it was a lousy day for hiking. I said, 'Who cares - it's my last day,'" she said. Here, Law (third from left) celebrates with a champagne toast at the Evans Notch Motel in Gilead. With her, from left, are Florence Grove, Law's husband Rod, and Kathryn Quann. Grove and Quann, also from Pennsylvania, accompanied Law on the trail from time to time over the years. Rod served as shuttle driver back and forth to the trail.
